Education or Crime

These who head our prisons agree as to the relation which ignorance bears to crime. They tell us that crime is its essence, and for the most part, is due to ignorance.

A life of crime not only destroys the well-being of the criminal but, in proportion as it increases, tends to break down the whole social order.

Crime in all its varied ramifications is costing the people of the United States close to $12,000,000,000 annually. This is in cash. What is it costing in its varied displacements of the people—their health, progress and general welfare? Certainly this cost is the greater, tho it cannot be measured in dollars.

Since our penologists agree that crime, in its essence, is due to ignorance, society should apply the only antidote known for ignorance, namely, education. If by proper education society can cut the money cost of crime 50 percent, it will not only save itself $6,000,000,000 annually, but will release that amount into channels of infinite value to all.

But what has society done for education through the country recently? Comparatively little to what it should and must do. There are a few things it has done to education, that which it has built up thru the years.

It has put nearly 8,000 experienced public school teachers, year-round, near the door, if not on the door.

It has reduced the salaries of over 200,000 public school teachers to less than $750 per annum, the minimum amount allowed federal laborers under the NRA codes. About $5,000 of these teachers received less than $750 a year for their services.

It has cut public school expenditures nearly $200,000,000 under those of the school year 1923-4, and more than $500,000,000 under those of five years ago. The expenditures, then were but one-fifth the cost of crime in this country now.

While it has been reducing expenditures for public schools it enrolled in these schools during the school year 1933-4, 675,000 more pupils than it did five years ago.

In 1923-4, it deprived 2,000,000 children of school age of any schooling or reduced school terms to a few weeks for these children.

It has in many places converted free high schools into tuition schools.

It has almost completely abandoned school building programs, while it housed hopelessly more than 100,000 pupils in city schools and a much larger number in rural schools.

The above are a few of the things society has done to education.

If society does not right about face and double its present outlay by building up high standards for the proper education of its children, it is appealing to contemptible, much less expedient, what ignorance in its destructive criminal tendencies will do to society during the rising generation.

Society must soon decide what it will do—materially increase its highest annual school bill or go on drifting and thus double and triple its annual crime bill, with all the attendant evils and breakdowns which accompany crime and ignorance.

There is no other way out but the educational route. Society must pay. Which is the safer bill, education with social uplift to higher levels of reality, or crime with social degeneration into squalor and decay?

Serious reflection on the ashes of the earth's empires and an admittance of them with the fatty degenerative matter growing up about the heart of the nation, would create a cleansing solvent which would destroy ignorance crime and greed—the causes of the destruction of all civilizations.

R. A. Baldwin III

R. A. Baldwin has been in a serious condition since he had yellow jaundice some months ago, but he had been quietly going about his work and few knew of his low blood pressure and the nights of suffering when his wife sat faithfully by doing everything possible. Mr. Baldwin finally submitted Tuesday to a careful examination by Dr. O. P. Henry at Mt. Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin are leaving this morning for Louisville, where he will be in the St. Joseph hospital under the care of Dr. Able. Their son-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Gentry, are already in Louisville to meet them. The sympathy of the entire community and wishes for Mr. Baldwin's speedy recovery go with them.

The Courier goes to Grade A homes.

P. T. A.

Parents and teachers convened in the school building Monday evening for their first meeting of the year.

The president, Mrs. W. A. Cuskey called the house to order and our music instructor, Mrs. R. A. Baldwin led in singing "Battle Hymn of the Republic". Rev. J. J. Scudder had charge of the devotion. After reading the thirteenth chapter of first Corinthians and offering prayer he commented on how the inspired Word places faith, hope and love as the first attributes to true character and emphasizes love as the greatest and most important thing for which to strive. Thus in the community is the home, the church, the school, he said the home is the most important factor in the community and the most important in the child's life. The church and the school depend upon the home and enlarged on the fact.

After a few preliminaries, County Supt. Hanes was called upon. He responded by giving a few of his plans for a good school year and stressed the need through the county for better school buildings. He unfolded plans the board of education hope to work out in securing modern buildings for consolidated schools as the roads are put in better shape. The county superintendent and board of education have under consideration plans whereby they may finance a modern high school building without an overburden to the taxpayers. Mr. Hanes closed his remarks by reading with excellent expression Edgar A. Guest's poem on the home.

Principal Clyde Lewis gave an interesting talk on cooperation between teachers and parents. He brought out the importance of home study; the responsibility of parents in securing home study; the benefit to the child; and the appreciation of the teacher as it enables him to do more for the child.

F. S. Brong made a few pointed remarks on his interest in putting a modern county high school building. Mrs. Mayme Anderson of the Chattanooga Foundation gave a brief talk on the building of character in the child. She is in town yet and will be there next week, and wishes to help parents what she can on this problem.

The president appointed standing committees for the ensuing year. The chairman of the committees are as follows: program committee, Mrs. T. H. Cuskey; membership, Mrs. J. A. Nickell; hospitality, Mrs. C. K. Stacy; finance or budget, Mrs. W. P. Elam; publicity, Mrs. F. S. Brong; typing prizes, Mrs. D. R. Arnett.

On motion, Prof. Everett Nickell was voted the right to sell candy only at specified times to students, the proceeds to be used entirely for the benefit of the school, the sales and purchases to be under the supervision of the principal. Mr. Nickell donating his services. Books bought with this income will be in the library for use by students and for the inspection of any member of the P.T.A. Seven dollars is being used with the addition of $2 from the P.T.A. treasury for the three prizes. If the committee sees fit to use as much as nine dollars.

It was voted to have the telephone connected at $1.50 a month.

The president appointed two ex-officio, Mrs. D. R. Keeton and Mrs. A. P. Gullett, who "chase up" forcing two sides in a membership campaign, the losing side to decide on some treat.

Three ministers, Revs. Harlan Murphy, J. J. Scudder, and Roscoe Brong, were voted honorary members.

In the attendance vote, the following teachers had the largest number of patrons present: Mrs. Ina Fennell, Mrs. Lorena Lewis, and Prof. Clyde Lewis.

The meeting adjourned to reconvene the second Monday in October.

Keeps Young

Uncle Joe Pieratt of Mize, one of the county's oldest citizens and a reader of the Courier, occasionally makes this office a pleasant call. He is 83 years of age, and with Mrs. Pieratt number two (somewhat his junior) to supply him with wholesome meals, keeps hale and hearty.

Mr. Pieratt does his own farming, and does it with alacrity. He goes at his plowing and hoeing with the agility of a young man. He cut and stored his own tobacco. He cuts corn, stacks it, feeds his own swine, takes care of his own cows. He is independent and asks odds of no man.

Mr. Pieratt is bright, cheerful, thrifty, active, young, and happy. He has learned the great truths of life—industry, thrift, cheerfulness, love to his fellow man—and puts them into practice—keeping young.

Auto Damage Insurance

Kentucky, with several other states of the American Union, has been very dilatory in protecting its citizenship against the ever increasing danger of the automobile in the hands of irresponsible drivers.

Common law then the ages hold, the individual responsible for the harm he inflicts on his community or any member of it.

When the state issues a license for the operation of a known dangerous vehicle on the public roads and less down the police governing the operation of such vehicle it is very reasonable that it should give to the citizen the right to have his property protected by the state.

Several of the states of our union which early recognized their obligation have worked out fairly satisfactory solutions.

One of the most common forms of protection is by what is known as Automobile Accident Insurance. Several of the states have set up their own insurance departments and have dipped rather deeply into public funds. In others the term "Auto liability" especially when dealing with old line insurance companies, is often so construed as to make the state responsible without precedent.

Kentucky has made none of these. The thousands of killed and maimed citizens every year the millions of property loss annually, the tears and the agony of bereaved families caused every year by persons financially irresponsible, none of these have caused Kentucky law-makers serious concern.

Some day a Kentucky legislature will give its people a "New Deal". Some day we will have learned the consideration of the rights of our fellow citizens is the first solemn obligation of citizenship. Then "Liberty" will have for us a new meaning.

In that day the Courier suggests the following thoughts in connection with automobile damage insurance.

1. Owner of machine and driver must be held jointly and severally liable for any damage done by said machine when unlawfully or carelessly operated.

2. The state of Kentucky will require satisfactory and adequate security in a fixed sum for the possible damage which may result from the improper operation of a motor vehicle and issue no license to either owner or operator until such security is paid.

3. Security may be by cash or partnership of the state for a fixed sum.

4. Security may be by bond properly executed.

5. Or by an insurance policy properly known and drawn up as a "liability" policy.

6. All together, all together. Not a thread but wool. All together, all together. That's the way we go.

The various classes met Monday and organized and elected the following officers:

Eighth grade: Pres. Elizabeth Rose Goff.

Seventh grade: Pres. John Paul Ruhl, A. Pres. Clyde L. H. G. G. Sec. Emma Goodpastor.

Sixth grade: Pres. Edna A. Whisenand, V. Pres. Beatrice Havens, Sec. Charles Goodpastor.

There will be a picnic supper at our school house Saturday night, Sept. 22, at 7:30 O'clock. Everybody is cordially invited to attend. The purpose of the picnic will be to raise money to buy school equipment.

The Chapel school visited the eighth grade Friday. Splendid hospitality was shown by both Miss Fugate and her students and we as a group wish to express our many thanks to the eighth school for a very happy day. We sincerely hope they can return our visit soon.

SEWING CIRCLE MEETS
Cannel City, Ky.—The Church of God Sewing Circle held its regular meeting Sept. 7 at the home of Mrs. M. H. Ferguson.

The president, Mrs. W. T. Stumper, called the meeting to order. The devotion was opened by singing "Nearer My God to Thee." The hostess read Psalm 121 and Mrs. George Callinsworth offered prayer.

Mrs. M. H. Ferguson, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting. After the usual business meeting the hostess served delicious refreshments of assorted fruits. The afternoon was enjoyed by all, and they will be glad to meet with Mrs. Ferguson again.

Present were Mrs. W. T. Stumper, Mrs. J. W. Benton, Mrs. Risley Lykins, Mrs. George Callinsworth, Mrs. Phil Bonavon, Mrs. M. H. Ferguson, and Misses Leona, Melvina, Wanda, and Delores Ferguson.

The meeting adjourned to meet with Mrs. Risley Lykins on Sept. 21.

Maine Endorses New Deal
At the state election in Maine on Monday of this week a Democratic governor and two of the state's three congressmen were elected by the Democrats. The veteran Republican Senator Hale won over his Democratic opponent by about 1200 instead of his usual majority of 40,000 to 50,000, which he had learned to expect during his 18 years as a member of the U. S. senate. His Democratic opponent is claiming fraud and will file a contest for the senate seat.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS

The Missionary society of the M. E. church met with Mrs. F. S. Brong Thursday afternoon, with the following persons present: Mrs. C. P. Henry, Mrs. Henry Cole, Mrs. J. R. Kendall, Mrs. Elijah Cochran, Mrs. Edgar Cochran, Mrs. Carl Price, Mrs. D. R. Keeton, Mrs. James Franklin, Mrs. H. S. Trayner, Mrs. W. O. Blair, Mrs. A. P. Gullett, Mrs. C. K. Stacy, Miss Mary Gullett, and Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Scudder.

The meeting was opened by singing "I Must Tell Jesus," followed by prayer. The president read from the book of Galatians and the company were assured.

Mrs. Stacy had charge of the program and called on Mrs. Franklin and Mrs. Henry, who presented a very interesting dialog which brought in a lot of information concerning the work of the society.

Information concerning the work of the society was given by Mrs. Keeton and Mrs. Gullett, who presented a Christian schoolship report of the zone meeting, and Mrs. Scudder and Mrs. Henry added a few details to the report.

It was voted to have an all day quilting at the parsonage today. Light refreshments were served. The society is pleased to have some of the members able to meet with them again, and were excited to find so many of the members present.

Mrs. Brong presented a very interesting report of the zone meeting, and Mrs. Scudder and Mrs. Henry added a few details to the report.

Banks Improved

The improved condition in the state banks of Kentucky within the last year is as remarkable as it is gratifying. A composite bank statement compiled from statements of the 34 state banks operating under supervision of the State Banking Department, discloses that money on deposit at end of the fiscal year June 30, in all state banks totaled $12,352,120 more than deposits one year previous.

Deposits amounted to $15,668,192.71 as compared with $11,132,272.72 one year ago.

While deposits were increasing by $4,535,920, the total money in the state banks was $15,668,192.71 as compared with $11,132,272.72 one year ago. This is a record for the state banks.

The banks are in a much better condition than they were a year ago. Much of the money in the state banks is now in the hands of the people.

FARMERS' COLUMN

The Farm and Home

Many farmers are planning to save liberal supplies of seeds, as there may be an active demand for next year's plantings. It would be well, under any conditions, to study the local supply and to have available sufficient quantities of adapted seed for all kinds of crops.

Poultry suggestions for September: Cull the laying flock; house and band the pullets; start keeping records, and remember that the egg standard for September is 111 eggs per bird. Prospects are for good egg prices during the fall and winter, which fact should stimulate preparation to give flocks good care.

As soon as kraut is as sour as desired it may be canned and kept indefinitely. Pack in sterilized glass jars add enough of the kraut brine to fill, partly seal, and process on hour in hot water bath or 40 minutes in a pressure cooker at 10 pounds pressure. Seal and store in a cool place.

Dairy farmers now have the privilege of having their cattle tested free for contagious abortion. Men interested in ribbing their herds of diseased animals should see their county agent or write to Dr. W. F. Bibles, Postoffice Building, Frankfort, for further information.

When buying a washing machine consider washing ability, wearing of feet on clothes, capacity, kind of wringer safety, lubrication, repair costs, noise of operation, ease of moving, floor space, simplicity of operation, uproot and fastening qualities.

Permitting weeds to ripen and scatter seed means trouble next year. A few days' use of the mowing machine and the hoe now may save many days work another season. Gardens, orchards, fence rows and the like should be cleaned before weeds go to seed.

Restrictions Modified

Restrictions on the use of land rented to the government have been modified, so that feed and seed produced may be fed or sold. Drought cattle may be pastured on rented acres so long as the farmer provides enough stock of his own to utilize the pasture on contracted acres when no grazing with the drought cattle. Seed from the following crops on rented land may be harvested and sold or fed: soybeans, cowpeas, forage sorghums, millet, sudan grass, alfalfa, lespedeza and clovers.

The use of rented or contracted land is now uniform for tobacco, corn, wheat and cotton farms.

Kentucky Farmers Benefit

Kentucky farmers have received a total of $2,121,434 for their cooperation in the agricultural adjustment program, and are to receive about $15,000,000, according to the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

Payments to August 1 included $2,121,434 to tobacco growers of the state; $183,641 to wheat farmers and $81,136 to cotton growers.

Estimated totals to be received by Kentucky farmers include $11,571,000 in the tobacco adjustment program; $2,080,000 for the adjustment of the production of corn and hogs; $260,000 in wheat payments; and $108,000 for cotton.

Sow Lawn Sept. 15

Experimental work and observation indicate that Sept. 15 is a good date to set for reseeding lawns.

If the soil is reasonably good, use only pure bluegrass seed, recommends N. R. Elliot of the college of agriculture, university of Kentucky. If the soil is poor a mix may be advisable to mix a fourth part of redtop with the bluegrass and sow the mixture about the middle of the month.

Many lawns are in poor condition as a result of recent rains causing an excessive growth of crabgrass and other troublesome weeds.

Mr. Elliot says these weeds should be kept clipped so as to prevent their development. Loosen the top soil lightly with a garden rake and scatter the bluegrass and redtop mixture.

On lawns where there is a small amount of crabgrass and other troublesome weeds, it may be advisable to dig the weeds and sprinkle the grass seed on the area where these plants were removed.

May Plant More

Wheat growers who signed adjustment contracts may sow 90 percent of their base acreage this year, according to an announcement of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, made thru the college of agriculture, university of Kentucky, which is supervising the adjustment program in the state. Farmers were permitted to sow only 85 percent of their base acreage last year.

According to the Washington statement, reduced thru the college the drought and the adjustment program have reduced the wheat carryover to approximately 230,000,000 bushels on July 1, this year, compared to 350,000,000 bushels on the same date a year ago.

"The normal carryover for export and reserve in past years has averaged between 125,000,000 and 15,000,000 bushels," says the statement.

"It is possible to attain this normal carryover this year, since the 1933 crop is estimated at 410,000,000 bushels and normal requirements of the country are about 625,000,000 bushels."

"The approach to the normal carryover of wheat this year made it possible for the adjustment administration to authorize cooperating farmers to plant this year for harvest next year, 90 percent of their base acreage instead of the 85 percent which was authorized last year. Favorable crop conditions probably would produce, on any greater acreage, a national crop so large that it would force prices down, jeopardizing farmers are protected against lower prices by their benefit payments, but non-cooperating farmers do not have this protection."

Poplar Most Abundant Hardwood in Canada

Poplar is the most abundant hardwood in Canada, and its utilization is of economic importance to Canada. Poplar lumber is white in color, light in weight, and, being practically insectless and odorless, is used to a considerable extent for food containers. Flour barrels and apple barrels are made from poplar staves, and butter boxes also have been made to some extent of poplar.

In Canada, excelsior is made almost exclusively from poplar. The softness of the wood, the white color, and its lack of distinctive odor, make it suitable for this purpose. Matches of the "kitchen" type are made from this wood. Poplar is also used in the manufacture of soda pulp, from which book, blotting, and other soft, opaque papers are made. This pulp does not require a long-hered wood like spruce.

Poplar is generally known as a perishable wood, difficult to dry; this is, in a sense, true. In the green condition poplar may easily become infected with fungi, with consequent rotting of the wood; this is particularly true of the sapwood. The exercising of certain precautions in the interval between the felling of the tree and the conversion of the log into lumber will prevent infection.

NEW DEMOCRATIC SENATORS

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 8.—There will be a gain of at least five seats in the United States senate in the November election, it was predicted by Senator Alben W. Barkley, who was in Kentucky for a brief visit recently.

Democratic senatorial gains will be made by election of the democratic nominees in West Virginia, Maryland, Missouri, New Jersey, and Delaware. Senator Barkley forecasts with certainty, he said, there is a strong probability that democratic senators will be elected in Ohio, Indiana and Minnesota.

It is to be expected that there will be a loss of democratic members in the house of representatives in view of the fact that many strongly republican districts elected democratic representatives in the Roosevelt landslide. It was pointed out by the senator, "We will not lose anything like as many seats as would be expected, however," he said, as he made the observation that a smaller democratic majority in the house would be conducive to greater cohesion and unity of the majority group.

Senator Barkley was the principal speaker at the Daniel Boone Bicentennial celebration at Boonesborough on Labor Day. After a brief visit to Louisville he departed for Omaha, Nebraska, where he will speak before the democratic state convention. The national democratic committee has requested Senator Barkley to speak in a number of states in behalf of the democratic senatorial and congressional nominees in the autumn campaign, and he will give considerable time to this activity, he said.

"We are on our way up the hill," said Senator Barkley when asked his opinion as to economic conditions. There has been very little improvement in most sections of the nation in his opinion. "We have suffered setbacks as a result of a disastrous drought in the west, which, together with labor disturbances that cause concern, have retarded the advance in some sections." The belief was expressed that the labor controversies will be adjusted soon thru the west will, with governmental aid, surmount the difficulties presented by the drought, and economic progress will continue.

Senator Barkley indicated that an amendment of the new federal judge in the Eastern district will be made soon. He said that no agreement has yet been reached as to who will be chief federal court clerk, or United States Marshal.

FEDERAL AID

Charles F. "Hell in Maria" Davies, Chicago banker, borrowed $800,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under Hoover in June, 1932, for his shattering Central Republic Bank and Trust Co. of that town. $28,261,000 of the principal is still due—has been since January, 1933, and is a trifling item of some $2,000,000 past due interest.

Chairman Jesse Jones, of the R. F. C., who always was a hopeful soul, thinks he can get the major part of this money collected in the next five years, but adds that full settlement will take ten years.

Two remarks appear to be in order. For one, Davies' action in borrowing that money was a scandal. His bank, obviously was a shell, and a well-nigh empty shell. Davies had been head of the R.F.C. where he could "line up" by other officials, he resigned that position, walked out the front door, and coming back by the side door, borrowed an enormous sum of which barely one-third has been repaid yet.

The other point to notice is that Davies belongs to the group that for years has been denouncing federal aid to the unemployed as a demoralizing force. He has been one of those who fight and protest against every "interference of government in business."

Yet his bank and hundreds of other banks are in existence solely by virtue of "government interference," and few federal contributions made to a whole city equal the amount of Davies' loan.

The big dogs from government have gone to the rich, and Charles F. Davies has shown himself a past master of the "grab and get" group.

People from all over the county were in town Saturday to trade with our advertisers. Specials are taken advantage of these days, our merchants give you a square deal. They do not put up the price because they are out of town. They want to "live and let live."

Mrs. Stella Emma and Mrs. Nancy Turner escorted Alben Barkley and Ella Turner to Bowling Green to enter business college. They left Saturday and visited several points of interest—Mammoth Cave, Old Kentucky Home, Fort Harrod, Lincoln's Birthplace—visiting 18 counties, and crossed into Tennessee for supper Sunday. However, they landed the girls safely in school, picked up Dr. A. P. Gullett, and reached home Monday.

Silo Will Be Aid to Dairy Farmers

Best Way to Save Crops Too Late in Maturing in Natural Way.

Dr. W. A. Foster, Farm Building Specialist, University of Illinois—WNU Radio.

Silos are coming into such importance as a result of the critical feed situation that one farmer even wanted to know how he could move a concrete silo instead of building another.

Extremely dry weather and the chinch bugs have combined to reduce the amount of hay and other forage that are normally stored for winter live stock consumption. But on farms with silos, this loss can be overcome at least partially by putting up additional silage. Corn planted or replanted too late to mature for grain will make good silage. Furthermore, such chinch-resistant crops as sunflowers, soybeans and cowpeas may be made into silage. Where grain sorghum is grown this, too, may serve as a substitute for the more common corn silage.

If a new silo of any kind is to be built, there are certain things that must be kept in mind. In the first place, the structure should be strong enough so that it will not burst under great pressure. It should be smooth on the inside so that the ensilage will settle freely, and leak-proof so that the juices will not seep away and air enter to cause spoilage. The silo should be economical of ample capacity, storm and fire-proof and attractive. The latter feature may not be essential, but it will add to its value as a permanent improvement in the farm building group.

Whether or not a silo is necessary on most farms is, of course, debatable in some cases. However, with the increased difficulty of earning a livelihood out of the soil because of keen competition, insect pests, drought and floods, late frosts and early frosts, the silo is becoming increasingly important in farm operations.

It is admitted that silo building is hard work, but it is all done in a few days. Then, after the task is completed, the farmer has available, in a 100-ton silo, sufficient feed to carry a herd of 25 cows through the winter feeding period with enough silage left over for four to six weeks feed during the summer when pastures are short.

"Back to Grass" Means the Forage Crops Also

"Back to grass," now the objective of farmers for millions of cultivated acres in the United States, needs a little explanation, according to crop specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture. Grass in this sense means legumes as well, and these are in most cases forage crops.

Grass, to the average person, connotes only plants in which the leaves are narrow and spear-shaped blades. When speaking of pasture land farmers usually refer to land in grass and not to the native grasses.

"Back to grass," means, more grasses and legumes in southerly pastures and hay land, or in crop rotations of two to five years. It means in many cases using better soil for pastures, "only pastureland" is a phrase common in the Middle West especially when referring to land too poor and too rough for plow land.

Grasses and legumes grown on soils as good as those used for grain crops, say the department specialists, often will return greater net profit to the live stock farmer than grains on similar soil.

Grass Halts Soil Erosion

Grass not only prevents erosion, but well managed grazing land loses its fertility, because less is taken from the soil by pasture plants and part of that which is removed is restored by herds. Land planted to corn on an 8 to 10 per cent slope in Missouri and North Carolina loses from 15 to 17 tons of soil an acre annually. Land growing bluegrass or lespedeza loses only 0.8 to 0.9 ton an acre. Similar results were obtained in a comparison of the native grass soil and cleared filled land in central Kansas, and of cotton and grassland in southern states. The eroding grass roots keep the soil porous and favorable to the absorption of moisture.

Stomach Worms in Lambs

Experiments conducted at the North Carolina state college experiment station show that deworming for control of stomach worms in lambs is absolutely necessary especially where the lambs have grazed on permanent pasture. This applies to all lands now on land and the deworming should be continued until the first of November. The most practical method of control, however, is to range pastures as often as possible and deworm only when conditions show this to be necessary. This method of control has given excellent results.

Along the Windrows

Peat may be stored and used for live stock bedding to replace straw.

Missouri had 1,000 acres of buckwheat in 1933.

Many farmers in South Africa are paying their accumulated debts.

Russia has about 1,000 sheep-fists wool.

What Vocation Shall My Boy Choose?

By A. B. Clemens, Director, Schools of Mechanical Engineering, International Correspondence Schools.

We live in a changing world. Opportunities for success in the future will differ from those in the past. A boy's wise choice of his life work may do much to determine success or failure. How shall he choose?

The Internal Combustion Expert

THE Burlington Zephyr and Union Pacific stream-line trains have provided dramatic demonstrations of the expanding field for internal combustion engines, and it is safe to say that no field promises wider or more rapid development than the use of internal combustion power units operating on oil, gas or gasoline.

Internal combustion engines, operating on low cost liquid fuels, are furnishing power for battleships and electric power plants, tractors and flour mills, locomotives and dredges. If the use of such power continues to expand during the next decade as rapidly as it has in the past, the field has been occupied only on its fringes.

It is, however, a field that requires technical training—training that must be acquired either at the engineering schools of the universities or by study while on the job. Both methods have their advantages. If the latter be chosen, a junior position in a power plant where internal combustion engines are used would be the first step for the young man anxious to become expert in the operation of the engines. For the young man interested chiefly in designing the engines, a first step would be a junior position in a drafting room. In either case study will be required to supplement experience.

The internal combustion engine is unquestionably man's greatest achievement in harnessing the maximum amount of power to be obtained from liquid or gaseous fuels. Without it we would have neither the airplane nor the automobile as we know them today. As its development progresses, no man can foresee its ultimate limits of its use.

A Home Made Lap Board Back and Nerves in Many Uses

WORKING with a heavy book, certain kinds of sewing, and many other home, office and studio tasks often become back-breaking when a table, the simple lap board, which once enjoyed quite a vogue, is a practical answer.

This useful article is little seen now except in the costly hardwood types, or in the paper board types which quickly ravel and split. Good lap boards made of laminated wood to prevent warping, or of seasoned hard woods, are well worth their cost, but strangely enough there seems to be little demand for them, as a survey of department stores in a large city recently revealed.

The ease with which pressed wood may be worked by anyone halfway clever with a saw makes it possible to turn out, in almost as little time as it takes to tell about it, an economical one-piece lap board—one that will be durable, warp-proof and waterproof besides.

From your building supply dealer obtain a section of pressed wood 3/16 of an inch thick from which a piece 25 x 19 inches can be sawed out. It comes in large strips, and most dealers usually have "sheets" in stock.

Hints for Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

SOME believe that any one who can boil water can cook corn on the cob. How many a tender ear of corn has been allowed to toughen through long keeping or faulty cooking no one will ever know. In the first place, fresh corn will not remain succulent long after it is pulled from the stalk. If you can get it in the pot the evening of the morning it was picked so much the better. Straight from the stalk to the pot is a delight that only home gardeners can enjoy.

Try this method next time you have corn on the cob. Place the ears in a large pot of boiling water to which has been added a tablespoon of granulated sugar. Young corn will cook perfectly in five minutes. More mature corn requires from eight to ten minutes. Do not salt the water as salt has a tendency to toughen corn. Sugar brings out its natural sweetness. If desired, salt the corn at the table.

Alka-Seltzer

The New Pain-Relieving, Alkalizing, Effervescent Tablet

Watch it bubble up, then drink it. You will be amazed at the almost instant relief. It is called Alka-Seltzer because it makes a sparkling alkaline drink, and as it contains an analgesic (Acetyl-Salicylate) it first relieves the pain of every-day ailments and then by restoring the alkaline balance corrects the cause when due to excess acid.

After trying many brands of medicines—so-called relief for gas, and all of them a failure, I gave up hopes. By chance I tried Alka-Seltzer—I am more than satisfied. Geo. Bennett, New York, N. Y.
